Anna Marie Obermeier – Rotary Youth Exchange

In September 2008 at the age of 14 Anna Marie Obermeier applied to the Rotary Club of Midland for the long term student exchange program. A freshman in high school in Midland, Ontario, Canada, Anna Marie was looking for the opportunity of a lifetime.

Through her elementary school years Anna Marie was involved in sports such as baseball and volleyball, and received the honour of being Athlete of the Year in Grade 8. The same year she was also chosen by the school faculty to attend the Ontario Educational Leadership camp, being considered as a future leader in the schools and the community. In her first year of high school she went on to play on three volleyball teams while being a captain of two. In 2008 she was voted MVP for her team in the Ontario Volleyball Association. During the same year she returned to her elementary school after class time to assist in coaching soccer with the younger students.

In July 2009 Anna Marie left for a one year exchange in central Brazil, leaving behind in Canada all that was familiar and comfortable. Today she will speak about her experiences in Brazil, the challenges faced in a new country with a new language and how the experience has changed her outlook.

Partnership will bring clean water to African schools

The Water and Sanitation Rotarian Action Group announced a partnership to bring 5 million gallons of clean water, along with sanitation and hygiene education, to 30 schools in Malawi and Tanzania during its fourth World Water Summit on 20 May.

Africare, a U.S.-based charity that has been working in Africa for 40 years, will use its expertise to help implement the project. Procter and Gamble will provide PUR water purification packets through its Children's Safe Drinking Water Program. And H2O for Life, a nonprofit based in Minnesota, will connect schoolchildren in North America with those in Malawi and Tanzania to educate them about the water crisis.

Through the action group, Rotary clubs and districts can donate to the project and use their community connections to help find schools to participate.

According to UNICEF, more than half the schools in developing countries do not have safe water.

“Because Rotary groups are interested in doing something with water, we wanted to create an option that clubs could easily do that's already been screened and vetted, a way to invest their dollars to have an impact -- in this case, a five-to-one match,” said Greg Allgood, director of the Children's Safe Drinking Water Program.

Allgood helped develop the PUR treatment -- a powder that kills pathogens -- in cooperation with the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. He then persuaded Procter and Gamble to turn it into a nonprofit venture. In 2008, he was recognized as an innovator by Popular Mechanics for his work.

The action group estimates that the water treatment will cost US$20,000 per school. Rotary clubs and districts will provide about a sixth of the funding.

The group announced several other partnerships during the summit, held in New Orleans, Louisiana, before the 2011 RI Convention. These included an alliance with Chevron to develop a technology demonstration center in Niger and an agreement with car wash owners in Atlanta, Georgia, who plan to contribute a portion of the cost of every car wash to water projects. The group is also working with Jamie Bartram, director of the Water Institute at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, to develop monitoring protocols for its projects.

“Partnerships are the key to successful, sustainable water, sanitation, and health programs,” said Ron Denham, chair of the action group. About 300 Rotarians and water and sanitation professionals attended the summit.

Workshops focused on sustainable sanitation, financing, monitoring, and evaluation. Keynote speakers included Bartram; Michael Nobel, founder of the Nobel Charitable Trust; William Reilly, former U.S. Environmental Protection Agency administrator and cochair of the National Commission on the BP Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill and Offshore Drilling; RI President-elect Kalyan Banerjee; and Rotary Foundation Trustee Chair-elect Bill Boyd.

Nobel and Reilly encouraged Rotary to become a leader in water issues. "I challenge Rotary to think big," Reilly said. "Have the sharp focus you've brought to polio. Engage more partners. Raise the energy level. And demonstrate to the world that this problem can be solved."

Today's Thoughts in Honor of

Tap Dance Day – May 25

Movement never lies. It is a barometer telling the state of the soul's weather to all who can read it.

- Martha Graham (1894 – 1991)

International Jazz Day – May 30

"Jazz will endure just as long people hear it through their feet instead of their brains."

- John Phillip Sousa (1854 – 1932)

A kind-hearted motorist saw a man struggling to change a tire alongside the highway, and he pulled over to see whether he could help. The man had a very red face and a dark smear across it where he'd wiped off sweat with dirty hands. His tie was undone and his shirt collar was askew, and it was clear he had also wiped his hands on his once-white shirt. Close to him stood an immaculately neat woman who was speaking in quick, agitated tones.

"Hello, there," said the motorist. "Say, I've changed a lot of tires ... maybe I can help here."

"You sure can," the man with the flat tire replied wearily. "My wife is an expert, too. If you will just do all the arguing with her about how this tire ought to be changed, I can concentrate on the dirty work and get the job done."
