Last Weeks Meeting

At last weeks meeting we were honored to have our clubs Camp RYLA attendees, Emily Pearce, Taylor Honea, Meaghan Dempsey, and Trey Pierce. All four of the kids talked briefly about their experience at Camp RYLA and verified to all of us that the right people were chosen from the many applicants to attend the camp. It was evident from each of their talks that they had a great time at Camp RYLA and gained a great deal from their experience. They represented our club very well. Emily's father, Tom, also spoke briefly about his experience at a similar camp when he was in High School and that led him into his career of Leadership consulting and training. It was great to have them visit our club.

Today's Thoughts in Honor of ....

Cow Appreciation Day – July 15

"I have been studying the traits and dispositions of the "lower animals" (so called) and contrasting them with the traits and dispositions of man. I find the result humiliating to me."

- Mark Twain (1935 – 1910)

National Caviar Day – July 18

Wealth is the parent of luxury and indolence, and poverty of meanness and viciousness, and both of discontent.

Ralph and Edna were both patients in a mental hospital. One day while they were walking past the hospital swimming pool. Ralph suddenly jumped into the deep end.

He sank to the bottom of the pool and stayed there.

Edna promptly jumped in to save him. She swam to the bottom and pulled him out. When the Head Nurse Director became aware of Edna's heroic act she immediately ordered her to be discharged from the hospital, as she now considered her to be mentally stable.

When she went to tell Edna the news she said, 'Edna, I have good news and bad news. The good news is you're being discharged, since you were able to rationally respond to a crisis by jumping in and saving the life of the person you love. I have concluded that your act displays sound mindedness.

The bad news is, Ralph hung himself in the bathroom with his bathrobe belt right after you saved him. I am so sorry, but he's dead.'

Edna replied, 'He didn't hang himself, I put him there to dry. How soon can I go home?'

Making a difference, one child at a time

For more than a decade, Robert Beck has provided input to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention as a public representative on the National Vaccine Advisory Committee.

Earlier this year, he fulfilled a desire to do something hands-on with vaccines.

An attorney and member of the Rotary Club of Fluvanna County (Palmyra), Virginia, Beck traveled to India to help vaccinate children against polio during National Immunization Days (NIDs) in February. He was part of a 43-member Rotarian team led by Noelle Galperin, 2008-09 District 6990 PolioPlus subcommittee chair and a member of the Rotary Club of Coral Gables, Florida, and Luis Ortega, then a member of the Rotary Club of Miami Dadeland-Pinecrest, Florida.

The team served at immunization booths in Chandigarh, where families brought their children to receive the oral polio vaccine. After this first phase of the NIDs, Beck and his team followed detailed, hand-drawn maps into the city's poorest areas.

"Picture each vaccination team walking through dense slums, across garbage troughs, and through drainpipes and all manner of debris, animals, and structures to vaccinate needy children," Beck says. "Add air thick with dirt and pollutants, so that we often could not see the end of the street. Then include the smells of decay, garbage, and insects, and you have what each team encountered each day."

Beck is quick to add, however, that there was more to the scene.

"One must also draw into that picture the smiling faces beautiful people and especially children, mothers dressed in colorful native clothes, and their offers of food and drink and their sincere thanks for our efforts," he says. "Only then can you see why we went back each day. We really believed we were making a difference, even if it was only one child at a time."

While in India, Beck and his team also visited several Rotary club-supported projects, including:

- A hospital in Delhi where surgery is performed to rebuild the deformed limbs of polio survivors, usually without charge
- A Rotarian-sponsored vocational training center, where young women learn to make clothing designs and patterns to obtain better jobs
- An advanced eye care center established by Rotarians in India and the United States
- A school that provides hearing-impaired children with hearing aids and an education

"My Rotary PolioPlus experience has given me a profound appreciation for what it means to be a Rotarian," Beck says. "Rotary programs are empowering local people, communities, and governments to create local solutions in which all may derive pride. PolioPlus and my fellow Rotarians have made me proud to be a Rotarian."
