A Message from the District Governor

A Word about Vocational Service Month

The Vocational Service Avenue promotes high ethical standards in business and professions, recognizing the worthiness of all useful occupations and fosters the ideal of service in the pursuit of all vocations.

Vocational service involves developing projects that help Rotary members contribute their talents to society's needs. This avenue represents the opportunity that each Rotarian has to represent the dignity and utility of one's vocation as an opportunity to serve society.

The role of Rotarians includes conducting themselves and their businesses in accordance with Rotary principles and responding to projects of the club. Vocational Service is at the very heart of Rotary; indeed, Rotary was founded by a group of business people as a forum for them to share their experiences and to interact with colleagues in different industries. To this day, an integral part of any Rotary club is the maintenance of a balance among classifications of businesses and professions.

Vocational Service is unlike the other four Avenues of Service in one very important aspect. The other four Avenues are all related to the Rotary Club, but the Vocational Service Avenue is the one arena in which each Rotarian is personally involved.

Perhaps clubs should consider annual Vocational Service Awards?

Keeping Children out of Harms Way

South African Damian Lahoud is deeply concerned about the welfare of AIDS orphans in his country, now and in the years to come.

“The number is steadily rising, and within a few short years there will be close to three million,” says Lahoud, a 2009-10 Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholar. “The difficult task of raising these children has fallen to the goGoGetters [a South African term for grandmother]. These goGos might not even be related to the children, but they have taken it upon themselves to look after [them], most taking care of up to 20 at a time. They provide protection and support and encourage these children to go to school.”

The plight of AIDS orphans led Lahoud to carry out a fundraising project during his scholarship year at Linköping University in Sweden. The project’s main goals were to increase awareness of AIDS in South Africa and the goGoGetters’ role in caring for the orphans, and to raise funds to help his sponsor, the Rotary Club of Knysna, support goGoGetters in the local community.

The university’s students have a tradition of wearing overalls that display patches of various gatherings they have attended. Lahoud’s fundraiser netted US$6,000 through the sale of special AIDS awareness “ImPATCHits” for about $2.75 each.

“I spent time on campus selling patches and promoting the project at Rotary clubs throughout Sweden, selling African beadwork ribbons to Rotarians,” Lahoud says. “A single patch can go a long way by helping one child for one month!”

Natsuko Sawaya, a 2007-08 Rotary Scholar from Japan, shares Lahoud’s passion for helping kids at risk. She works at a center in Mbour, Senegal, where 160 children live, more than 100 of them less than a year old. The Rotary Club of Bologna-Est, Italy, and four other clubs in Bologna have helped support her efforts there.

“I could see among the ones who were only a couple of months old the symptoms of institutionalization and maternal deprivation,” says Sawaya, who studied as a Rotary Scholar in Italy. “I worked with a psychologist to improve the quality of maternal care. The center is now building a new facility for babies. I’d like to help make the place better for institutional care.”

After the center opens, Sawaya is planning to work at an orphanage in Zimbabwe. Eventually, she would like to study as a Rotary Peace Fellow.

“It’s really unbelievable what Rotarians are trying to do for me, for kids, for people everywhere I go,” Sawaya says. “I’m still connected with Rotarians around the world and receiving such wonderful opportunities.”

Maternal and child health is one of the areas of focus of the Future Vision Plan. The three-year Future Vision pilot began 1 July and continues until 30 June 2013.

Today's Thoughts in Honor of

Halloween – October 31

For as children tremble and fear everything in the blind darkness, so we in the light sometimes fear what is no more to be feared than the things children in the dark hold in terror and imagine will come true.

- Titus Lucretius Carus (99 BC – 55BC)

All Soul's Day – November 2

It is the will of God and Nature that these mortal bodies be laid aside, when the soul is to enter into real life; 'tis rather an embrio state, a preparation for living; a man is not completely born until he be dead: Why then should we grieve that a new child is born among the immortals?

- Benjamin Franklin (1706 – 1790)

The local minister of a large congregation was having church services early one Sunday morning. As he was doing so, in walked Satan dressed to the hilt. Fire was shooting out of his eyes, smoke was coming out of his nostrils, and he left burning footprints wherever he walked. The members of the congregation were so alarmed that they all ran out of the church in hopes of saving their souls.

But in the corner sat a slim little old man in his eighties. Satan walked up to him with fire all around him. "Are you not afraid of me?" Satan said in a deep voice.

"No, I am not," said the old man calmly.

"And why not?" asked Satan.

The old man looked at him and said, "I have been married to your sister for 60 years!"
