Today's Thoughts in Honor of

Hermit Day- October 29

"Politicians need religion even more than a hermit in retreat. If a hermit acts out of bad motivation, he harms no one but himself. But if someone who can directly influence the whole of society acts with bad motivation, then a great number of people will be adversely affected."

- 14th Dalai Lama-Tenzin Gyatso (1935 –)

Housewives Day – November 3

To be a housewife is to be a member of a very peculiar occupation, one with characteristics like no other. The nature of the duties to be performed, the method of payment, the form of supervision, the tenure system, the "market" in which the "workers" find "jobs," and the physical hazards are all very different from the way things are in other occupations.

- Barbara Bergmann (1927 –)

Grandpa was celebrating his 100th birthday and everybody complimented him on how athletic and well-preserved he appeared.

"Gentlemen, I will tell you the secret of my success," he cackled. "I have been in the open air day after day for some 75 years now."

The celebrants were impressed and asked how he managed to keep up his rigorous fitness regime.

"Well, you see my wife and I were married 75 years ago. On our wedding night, we made a solemn pledge. Whenever we had a fight, the one who was proved wrong would go outside and take a walk."

Some projects are a nightmare

Nightmare at Beaver Lake is one of the creepiest club projects you're likely to run into — but in a good way.

Last year, the Rotary Club of Sammamish, Washington, USA, raised more than $100,000 through its haunted adventure at Beaver Lake Park, entertaining thousands of children and their parents. The Halloween event this year runs from 24 October through 31 October.

Proceeds are used to support club service projects, help local charities, and support RI projects that address the Millennium Development Goals.

The Sammamish club, chartered in 2003, launched Nightmare at Beaver Lake as a way of involving the city's sizable teenage population in the planning and execution of an event they'd also be drawn to as customers, says Dee Hoeke, the club's 2004-05 president. The event has grown from 4,000 visitors during four nights in 2004 to an eight-night production attracting more than 10,000 visitors.

Through the process, the club has formed a broad partnership with local businesses, youth groups, high school students, and the Sammamish City Parks Department. The event is co-produced by Scare Productions, a nonprofit organization with more than 20 years' experience staging haunted-house events.

"We literally involve hundreds of people in the community to put on the show for the enjoyment of thousands," says Anita Boser, press secretary of the Sammamish club.

Each year's theme is unique. This year, participants encounter scenes of fractured fairy tales and medieval mayhem as they make their way along a three-quarter-mile wooded trail with indoor and outdoor sets.

"A medieval battle is underway to win the castle back from a vampire clan, an evil hag has placed a curse on the poor villagers, and fairy tales are being fractured," says Dana Young, a Sammamish resident and volunteer.

Nightmare at Beaver Lake raises money for college scholarships, computers for schools in Uganda, wells in Ethiopia, and a literacy program for third-graders in King County. The event also supports Thanksgiving baskets for needy families and fresh fruit and vegetables for local food banks.

Additional charities supported include Habitat for Humanity, the Life Enrichment Organization for developmentally challenged adults, the YMCA Partner with Youth program, and DECA.
